The President's Message

Don M. Johnson

AACEI Catawba Valley Section President

Diversity Welcomed

We welcome all people of our profession to share in our monthly meeting in hopes of broadening our collective conscience of project controls. By sharing our knowledge and experience we may help each other, no matter what our industry may be, to realize a greater understanding of our individual profession. We are women and men, within varying business models and industries, concerting together for a common ethical goal of unified practice.

Through our associations of the professional organizations, in which we participate, and our daily employment we encounter many philosophies. To varying degrees we can see the results of these philosophies and their relative success within the enterprise we are each involved. No matter how small or extreme the enterprise the common goals of our professions are to maximize value and clarity as we take part in the management process. As the mission of AACEI unfolds in our daily professional activities the value that we bring to our clients and employers will become more apparent by their success. Our reward is their realization of the worth of our people and the resources that we bring.

"We are women and men, within varying business models and industries, working in concert toward a common ethical goal of unified practice."

Announcement

We owe our special thanks to Richard Glassen and Scott Bishop, of HDR Inc., for granting us the opportunity to participate in the CCE/CCC exam preparation course, (10/23 – 10/24) with the Kansas City Section. The course was most informative and provided a broad range of subject matter in a condensed format.

We need two presentation dates to complete our schedule for January and April 2010. Anyone can submit a synopsis for a short presentation on any of their experiences of practice to the President for inclusion in the schedule for the subject dates.
